This project plan is very thorough and detailed, and the project itself is interesting. There isn't too much criticism I can give about this plan, although I would say that since your domain is traffic control, your algorithm should be trained on as much data as possible, as even one corner case of data could result in a fatal crash and result in airports abandoning your application.

Good luck!